To whom it may concern,

Re: Aquatech

We are writing with pleasure to provide a reference for the above company.

We first used Aquatech four years ago in an emergency situation to attend to a leaky pipe. This was dealt with very promptly and efficiently. Their initial efforts gave us the confidence to consider them for future works.

We next used them to upgrade our heating system, which entailed installing additional radiators, replacement hot water cylinder and other associated works. Again this work went very smoothly with minimum disruption or fuss.

They next completed refitting our family bathroom including removal of existing suite, all carpentry work, tiling work and electrical work and the installation of the new suite. This work was carried out to an excellent standard. We were absolutely delighted with the result and speed with which this was done.

When then had our kitchen refitted and Aquatech worked with our kitchen fitters to reconfigure the pipe work to accommodate the new kitchen layout. Their professionalism aided in completing these works without delay.

The most recent job they have completed for us is an en-suite bathroom. They aided with the design for this room and we largely left them to select the fittings. They undertook the whole job from beginning to end taking care of every last detail and we couldn't have wished for a better job.

In all, we have always found Aquatech to be very clean, tidy professional and competitive and would have no reservations in recommending their services.

Yours faithfully
